About This Game

Description

Accurate Segmentation - is a logical game with physics, in which you have to make the green cube come into contact with the blue platform for exactly 2 seconds. When you click on some of the figures, they break up into smaller ones, and when they click on the small pieces, they disappear. The difficulty is that you have a limited amount of action that you need to deliver a cube to the platform. In the game you need to use smartness and logical thinking for the successful passage of all levels.

A good series of games, at first I thought that there are few levels, but they are divided here into 3 games, so that's enough with the head because the price of the game is very small. Everyone loves games with physics, including me, it is very nice when you have correctly calculated everything and passed the level, you feel smart.. I would like speakers, some unusual possibilities and in this spirit. simple and use your tactics skills. It's always fun to play with physics, but the game seemed difficult for me, sometimes I really don't have enough action points and I have to think and practice different tactics for a long time. I played the third part of this game, I decided to buy some more. The third part is definitely better and more thoughtful than the first, it is better to take it. need to be really smart to good playing in it. very nice game, I really liked it, I love physics, in this game an interesting and simple idea of dividing figures into just the same small figures, several actions are given, they need to be met, it's interesting, I advise. A good game, I liked the physics and non-standard levels, especially the last ones, I would also like to note, though simple, but pleasant and minimalistic graphics.. nice abstractions, nice to play, but the music is sharp, I turned off need to be really smart to good playing in it. good physics game

. I played the third part of this game, I decided to buy some more. The third part is definitely better and more thoughtful than the first, it is better to take it. 6/10 game with physical figures, interestingly implemented, the music is a bit out of topic, but it can be turned off, the style of the game is minimalistic of the shortcomings of the number of levels. i like this game very relaxing
