Baghdad has refused to accept the legitimacy of the Iraqi army's election victory, which saw it beat the Sunni Muslim Isis militants and secure the city of Mosul as it sought to consolidate its gains against the Shi'ite population of the country's northern Nineveh province.. I understand that, by accepting a donation, I will become a US Government Employee. I don't want to become public enemy #1, but, I want the donation to help me get my VA benefits. There were already reports of a potential coup for the government of prime minister Haider Al-Abadi following Sunday's announcement that he had ordered the resignation of the vice prime minister, who had been in charge of a major military operation against Islamic State in northern Iraq.. But reports that the coup attempt may have originated among soldiers and the security services also raised fears that the army's decision to put on hold plans to launch an offensive against the Isis stronghold of Mosul had been taken with little warning..

While the US-led coalition has taken more than 700,000 direct and indirect casualties since it began bombing Isis in Syria and Iraq last September, most of them civilians, its air strikes and its use of the Islamic State group in western Europe have had few effects as Iraq's defence forces continue to hold their ground and advance further south in an attempt to retake east Mosul as well as wrest back Tikrit, its last major urban centre..
